

PERSONAL INFORMATION

Yuansheng Sun

WORK EXPERIENCE

June 2001–Present

Assessor (Clinical, Nonclinical)

Paul-Ehrlich-Institute (Germany)

In Paul-Ehrlich Institute (Germany), to review clinical trial applications and regulatory submissions for marketing authorization of human vaccine products or approval of post-marketing changes, submitted at national level or via a centralized or a decentralized procedure, to provide scientific Advice on clinical and nonclinical issues related to human vaccine products.

Since 2012, Dr. Sun has been actively involved in WHO activities including preparation of the WHO written standards for human vaccines.

In September 2018, he was nominated by the Ministry of Health Germany as Alternate in Paediatric Committee (PDCO) of the EMA to start his direct contributions to the Committee.

June 1995–May 2001

Scientist

German Cancer Research Center, University Hospital Rudolf-Virchow-Klinikum Berlin (Germany)

In the University Hospital Rudolf-Virchow-Klinikum Berlin (Germany); German Cancer Research Center (DKFZ) in Heidelberg (Germany), to conduct academic research into tumor biology/immunology and vaccine development.

August 1990–June 1995

Physician

Beijing Badachu Hospital (Germany)

In Beijing Badachu Hospital (China), to fulfill duties and responsibilities of a physician.

EDUCATION AND TRAINING

September 1982–August 1990

Human Medicine

earned a B.S. of Medicine from the Taishan Medical College (1987) and a M.S. of Medicine from the Beijing University of Chinese Medicine and Pharmacology (1990), China, and an M.D. from the Ruprecht-Karls-Universität Heidelberg (2001), Heidelberg, Germany.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Expertise

Publications

Projects

Memberships

Other Relevant Information